Jasu Loves Football

Author: Rehema Egbert
Illustrator: Godwin Chipenya
Translator: Alisha Berger
Jasu liked to play football.
But she lost her ball!
She looked for old socks, scrap paper, and thread.
She made a ball.
Jasu kicked her ball everywhere she went.
Jasu went to visit her grandpa.

She kicked to her ball into his mango tree. Some mangoes dropped.
Grandpa wasn’t happy. He told Jasu to be careful.

Jasu apologized.
Jasu went to the market with her mother.
She kicked her ball.
It landed in a basket of tomatoes.

Tomatoes fell to the ground!
Mama told Jasu not to play around.

Jasu apologized again.
Jasu carried her ball all the way home.
At home, Jasu went to the playground with her friends. They played happily.
Grandpa was happy that Jasu is playing in a safe place. He bought Jasu a nice new ball.

Every evening, the neighborhood kids gathered to play at the playground.
Jasu likes kicking the new ball with her friends...
...but Jasu still loves her old ball, too.
